Girls defeat Buckingham

Following an easy 46-24 victory over Buckingham Tuesday night, the Appomattox varsity Raideretes were defeated by a powerful Rustburg Team in girls' basketball action Friday night.

Ruby Smith was the leading scorer for the Raideretes, running up 19 points against Buckingham last Tuesday night. Rhonda Jaggars with 10 points also scored in double figures, followed by Susan Handy, Robin Martin and Lolita Preston, each with four points. Karen Johnson with three points, and Angie Murray, who scored two points for the night.

The Raideretes jumped out to an early lead, scoring 16 points in the first quarter to Buckingham's four. The local girls again outscored Buckingham in the second quarter, and went into the lockerroom with a 28-12 lead at the half.

In the third period of play, the Raideretes stretched their lead to 40-18, and added six points in the final period of play to ice the game, 46-24.

The Raideretes went eight for 19 from the freethrow line, for a 42 percent performance. Buckingham made six of 12 foul shots for a 50 percent performance.

Marjorie Lee led scorers for Buckingham, with nine points for the night. Veronica Carter followed with six points. Angela Perkins had five points, Rhonda Maxey scored two, and Tina Russel and Mary Guill each scored a point for Buckingham.

The Raideretes held off Rustburg throughout the first half in Friday night's game, but a 38-point second half, sparked by Cindy Lewis' 18 points, gave the lady Red Devils a 52-42 advantage when the final buzzer sounded.

The Raideretes jumped out to a 13-6 lead in the first quarter, on the hot shooting of Ruby Smith, who scored 10 of her 19 points in the first period.

The local girls again outscored Rustburg in the second period, and went into the locker room with a 23-14 lead at the half.

The Lady Red Devils came out gunning in the third quarter, however, and ran up 20 points to the Raideretes' 10 to take a one-point advantage as the third quarter ended.

In the fourth quarter, the Rustburg team again dominated scoring 18 points to Appomattox's 10 to win the game, 52-42.

Smith was high scorer for the Raideretes against Rustburg, scoring 19 points in the game. Following Smith was Susan Handy with seven points, Lolita Preston with six, and Robin Martin and Rhonda Jaggars, who each scored five points.

The Raideretes went 12 for 27 at the foul line for a 44 percent performance, while Rustburg made six of 12 freethrows for a 50 percent foul-shot performance.

The Raideretes were scheduled to play Gretna Tuesday night after the Times-Virginian deadline. Friday the local girls will go up against William Campbell away. Game time is 6:30 p.m.

Last-second shot hurts

A last-second shot by Rustburg's Pat Riley gave the Red Devils a one-point victory over Appomattox's varsity Raiders Friday night, following a 54-46 loss at the hands of Buckingham last Tuesday.

"Friday's game (against Rustburg) was a tough one to lose," said Raider Coach Coty Dickerson trhis week. "It was a game where we just didn't cash in on the opportunities, like missed shots at the foul line, and throwing the ball away under pressure from their press."

The Raiders played the Red Devils neck and neck throughout the game, matching them point for point in the first quarter, and falling behind by one point as the buzzer sounded ending the first half, 23-22.

The third quarter saw Rustburg extend that lead by one point, with the score ending at 37-35 at the end of that period of play.

The final quarter was a see-saw affair, with the Raiders pecking away at the Rustburg lead until the local team held a one-point advantage with seconds left to play. Then Rustburg's Riley hit his jump shot to score the winning points of the game.

Shane Abernathy and Marvin Johnson were high scorers for the Raiders, with 17 and 16 points, respectively. Rustburg's Lincoln Wood and Maurice Nowlin each scored 16 points as well.

Other Raiders with points on the board against Rustburg were Jeff Miller with eight points (three field goals and two for two from the foul line), Kevin Ferguson with six points,(three field goals), Ron Carter and Rick Caldwell, with a field goal.

The Buckingham game saw Appomatox open a lead early in the game, only to be chipped away by persistent offensive and defensive play on the part of visiting Buckingham.

The two teams play even in the first quarter, a slow period offensively which saw both teams score but five points.

The Raiders opened things up a bit in the second quarter, however, scoring 18 points to Buckingham's 14 to carry a 23-19 lead into the loc ker room as the first half ended.

In the third quarter, Buckingham chiseled away at the Raider lead, scoring 13 points to the Raiders' 11 to enter the final period trailing by two points, 34-32.

In the final period of play, however, Buckingham exploded for 22 points to the Raiders' 12 and when the buzzer sounded ending the game, the Raiders found themselves with a 54-46 loss.

Abernathy was again the game's high scorer, with 16 points (four field goals and eight for ten from the foul line), followed by Buckingham's Ear Eldridge with 15 points, and Buckingham's Russ Gowin with 14 points.

Marvin Johnson also scored in double figures for the Raiders, with 11 points (five field goals and a foul shot) during the game. Others recording points for the Raiders against Buckingham were Jeff Miller with nine (three field goals and three for nine from the foul line), Kevin Ferguson with four (two field goals), Tick Caldwell with four (one field goal and two for four from the foul line), and Ron Carter with two points on a field goal.

Noting that the Rustburg game marked the end of the first half of the season, Coty Dickerson, Coach, siad Monday that his team will continue to work for improvement in the second half of the schedule. "We've played everybody once now, and we know what we have to do. We're going to start making our own breaks."

The coach added that his team will continue to work on the basis of sound fundamental basketball, making minor adjustments to their game as needed.

This week, the Raiders were scheduled to play Gretna Tuesday after the Times-Virginian deadline. Friday night's game is against William Campbell at William Campbell. Game time is 8 p.m.

ROBERT MARTIN displays a large water snake he killed near Oakville this weekend. Martin says the snake was on a dirt road, lying in the sun, but could hardly move. He notes that it is very unusual to see snakes during the winter, and could offer no explanation as to why this particular reptile was out and about with the mercury sitting at 31 degrees farenheit.

Decline in Virginia travel for Nov.

While the decline was less than 1 percent, total travel on Virginias major highways in November was down for the 18th straight month, the Virginia Department of Highways and Transportation said last week.

Overall travel showed a drop of 0.8 per cent when compared to a year ago. Out-of-state passenger cars again showed an increase, 4.5 per cent over November, 1979.

Virginia passenger car travel was down 1.2 per cent and travel by all passenger vehicles decreased 0.4 per cent when compared to a year ago. Commercial vehicle travel declined by about 3 per cent when compared to November a year ago.

The statistics were compiled from counts taken at 265 locations on the state's interstate, arterial, and primary highways, Mills said.

Mills also noted that travel in each month of 1978 had shown a consistent increase of about 5 per cent a month. Since June, 1979, there has been a decrease of 1 to 4 per cent each month.

Had there not been these decreased in travel over the past one and one-half years, travel in November, 1980 would have been 11 per cent greater then in November, 1978, Mills said.

Mastitis, a costly disease

Mastitis is the most costly disease of dairy cattle in Virginia, robbing producers of an estimated $150 per cow annually.

"Roughly one-half of the dairy cattle in the state are affected by mastitis this year," said Gerald M. Jones, Extension dairy specialist at Virginia Tech.

"The disease will cost dairymen in the Commonwealth over $30 million in terms of lost milk production, drug costs, cull cows, increased herd replacement, and veterinarian costs."

Mastitis is an inflammation of the udder, characterized by increased white blood cells in milk. Invasion of the udder by bacteria is assisted by improper milking practices, dirty environment, or faulty milking equipment.

Mastitis Control "Cow College" will be held Monday through Wednesday, Feb. 2-4, at the Donaldson Brown Center for Continuind Education on the Virginia Tech campus. The third in a series of four such "colleges" the event is planned as part of a continuing effort by the Extension Division and Tech's department of dairy science to provide in-depth coverage of important subjects concerning Virginia's dairy farmers and dairy industry.

The Cow College will describe the development of mastitis and emphasize the importance of procedures that prevent the spread of infections from cow to cow. Topics to be discussed include the role of the milking machine, the importance of proper milking practices and routines, the cows surroundings, treatment procedures, trouble shooting high bacteria counts, and milk quality problems.

Registration will be held from 12:45 -2 p.m. Monday, Feb. 2. A $27 registration fee will include two luncheons and three milk and coffee breaks. Monday's program will get underway at 1p.m. and adjourn at 6 p.m. Students are scheduled to visit the Virginia Tech Dairy Cattle Center Tuesday afternoon.

According to Jones, the keynote speakers will be Stephen Spencer of Pa. State University and Dominik Stillfried, Scottsville dairyman. Spencer has published many articles related to milking equipment in dairy magazines, and will discuss milking machine function and operation Tuesday at 8:15 a.m.

Stillfried and his milkers maintain a low somatic cell count in their Central Virginia herd and have attained previous Cow College programs. He will speak on "Making Use of What You've Heard" at Wednesday's luncheon.

Other speakers will discuss various aspects of the production of high quality milk.

For more information on the program, contact a local Extension office.

Beef in quantity saves

Purchasing a side or a quarter of beef to be stored in the freezer is one way to make the food shopping money go farther.

Beef varies in quality more than any other meat, said, Norman G. Marriott, Va. Tech Extension Specialist in food technology. Making sure of the quality is very important especially when it is purchased in quantity.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) grades beef as to levels of quality and yield. Consumers need to be aware of what grade is being sold to know if they are getting their money's worth.

Prime is the ultimate in tenderness, juiciness, and flavor but is usually sold only to hotels and restaurant

Choice grade beef has slightly less marbling (deposits of fat within the muscle) than prime, but still is of high quality. Choice roasts and steaks will be very tender, juicy and flavorful. Most beef sold at retail stores is choice.

Good grade beef pleases thrifty shoppers because it is somewhat more lean than the higher grades. It is fairly tender, but, because it has less marbeling, it lacks some of the juiciness and flavor of the higher grades.

Standard grade beef has a high proportion of lean meat and very little fat. Because it comes from young animals, beef of this grade is fairly tender. But because it lacks marbeling, it has less flavor.

Commercial grade beef is produced only from mature animals--the higher grades are restricted to young animals. Because commercial grade beef comes from older animals it is not naturally tender even though it is well marbled and could be mistaken for prime grad.

The lowest three grades,utility, cutter, and canner- are seldom is ever sold at retail but are used to make ground beef and manufactured meat items such as frankfurters.

USDA also designates a yield grade to indicate the amount of usable meat from a beef carcass. The difference in the amount of meat is caused primarily by differences in the amount of fat on the outside of the carcass. The yield grades are in numbers with "1" denoting the highest yield and "5" the lowest said the faculty member in Tech's College of Agriculture and Life Sciences.

All meat, regardless of grade, must be inspected by USDA. All meat must conform to specifications insuring sanitation.

"Only if the beef's quality and yield grades are known can consumers compare prices," Marriott said. Unscrupulous dealers have done such things as offer lower grades of beef to make customers think they are getting a bargain.

If there are any questions about a dealer or misleading advertising, check with the local Better Business Bureau or Chamber of Commerce before making any purchase. The best way to be sure of quality is to buy from a reliable dealer.

4-H news

Mrs. Humphries' 5th Grade 4-H Club met on December 11, 1980. Our 4-H leader was Mrs. Walton. Rhonda Ranson, President, called the meeting to order. Marsha Doss led us in the Pledge to the American Flag. Michael Williams led us in the 4-H Pledge. Kathy White and Beth Marston led us in some songs and games. Kim Fuller read the minutes from the last meeting. Mrs. Walton went over the old business and new business. She also showed us many different kinds of crafts.

Rhonda Ranson then adjourned the meeting.
